Employment Agencies/Search Firms/Staffing Services/Temp Agencies/On Line Job Board Services/Contract Recruiters, etc. - a.k.a., "Third Party Recruiters"

University Career Services, in response to conflicts of interest between client companies and "Third-Party Recruiters" (see definition below), and after extensive and multiple surveys of peer institutional practices and employers, and guidance from the National Association of Colleges and Employers, has implemented policies and procedures to work with such organizations.

Third Party Recruiters are not eligible to participate in the Career and Internship Fairs – unless recruiting under the following three parameters:

1. Third-party recruiter is solely recruiting for a position within its own organization; they are then considered an employer and are allowed to participate in the fairs.
2. If recruiting for a client-company, the third-party recruiter is only recruiting for ONE client-company, and represents that company in presentation and collateral.
3. The third-party recruiter is acting as an Outsourcing Contractor or Leasing Agency as defined below and complex enough to refer you to that section in the definitions in Section F. This category fits under #1, as well, hence being allowed.

Otherwise, a separate job fair may be made available to third-party recruiters for multiple client-company recruitment. No exceptions.

Call us for information: 404/413-1830.

Definition of "Third-Party Recruiter":

- A. Third-party recruiters are agencies, organizations, or individuals recruiting candidates for temporary, part-time, or full-time employment opportunities other than for their own needs. This includes entities that refer or recruit for profit or not for profit, and it includes agencies that collect student information to be disclosed to employers for purposes of recruitment and employment:
- B. Third-party recruiting organizations charge for services using one of the following fee structures:
  1. Applicant paid fee - The applicant pays the third-party recruiter a flat fee for services rendered or a fee based upon the applicant's starting salary once the applicant is placed with an employer.
  2. Employer paid fee-
    - a. Retainer-The employer pays a flat fee to the third-party recruiter for services performed in the recruiting of individuals to work for the employer.
    - b. Contingency fee-The employer pays to the third-party recruiter a percentage of the applicant's starting salary once the applicant is hired by the employer.
    - c. Fee for service-The employer pays a fee for specific services, e.g. job postings, access to résumés, booth space at a job fair, etc.
- C. The above definition includes, but is not limited to, the following entities regardless of the fee structure used by the entity to charge for services:
  1. Employment Agencies-Organizations that list positions for a number of client organizations and receive payment when a referred candidate is hired. The fee for listing a position is paid either by the firm listing the opening (fee paid) or by the candidate who is hired.
  2. Search Firms-Organizations that contract with clients to find and screen qualified persons to fill specific positions. The fees for this service are paid by the clients.
  3. Contract Recruiter-Organizations that contract with an employer to act as the employer's agent in the recruiting and employment function.
  4. Online Job Posting or Résumé Referral Services-For-profit or commercial organizations that collect data on job seekers and display job opportunities to which job seekers may apply. The data collected on job seekers are sent to prospective employers. Fees for using the services may exist for the employer, school, or job seeker.
  5. Professional Associations - who recruit for their membership.

D. Temporary Agencies or Staffing Services- Temporary agencies or staffing services are employers, not third-party recruiters, and will be expected to comply with the professional conduct principles set forth for employer professionals. These are organizations that contract to provide individuals qualified to perform specific tasks or complete specific projects for a client organization. Individuals perform work at the client organization, but are employed and paid by the agency.

E. Professional Associations recruiting for member companies of that association are considered a Third-Party Recruiter.

**Should these firms attempt to or actually recruit individuals to be employees of another organization, then the third-party professional conduct principles shall apply.****

F. Outsourcing Contractors or Leasing Agencies- Outsourcing contractors or leasing agencies are employers, not third-party recruiters, and will be expected to comply with the professional conduct principles set forth for employer professionals. These are organizations that contract with client organizations to provide a specific functional area that the organization no longer desires to perform, such as accounting, technology services, human resources, cafeteria services, etc. Individuals hired by the outsourcing or leasing firm are paid and supervised by the firm, even though they work on the client organization's premises. If an outsourcing contractor or leasing agency is found to be recruiting for the same position an employer is recruiting for (that employer is a client of the contractor/agency) that is attending a fair, they must cease and refrain, so as to allow the employer to recruit for their own positions.

Third-party recruiters will be versed in the recruitment field and work within a framework of professionally accepted recruiting, interviewing, and selection techniques.

Third-party recruiters will follow non-discrimination practices in recruiting activities in a manner that includes the following:

- a. Referring qualified students to employers without regard to the student's race, color, national origin, religion, age, gender, or disability;
- b. Reviewing selection criteria for adverse impact and screening students based upon job-related criteria only, not based upon the student's race, color, national origin, religion, age, gender, or disability;
- c. Refusing, in the case of résumé referral entities, to permit employers to screen and select résumés based upon the student's race, color, national origin, religion, age, gender, or disability;
- d. Avoiding use of inquiries that are considered unacceptable by EEO standards during the recruiting process;
- e. Affirming an awareness of, and sensitivity to, cultural differences and the diversity of the work force;

- f. Investigating complaints forwarded by the career services office or the employer client regarding EEO noncompliance and seeking resolution of such complaints.

University Career Services may choose to advise students to approach third-party recruiters who charge a fee with caution. University Career Services will make available to students the NACE publication, "A Student's Guide to Interviewing with Third-Party Recruiters."

Third-party recruiters must disclose information as follows:

- a. Third-party recruiters will disclose to students the name(s) of the client, or clients, that the third-party recruiter is representing and to whom the students' credentials will be disclosed.
- b. When deemed necessary, third-party recruiters will disclose information upon request to University Career Services that would enable University Career Services to verify that it is recruiting for a bona fide job opportunity. Information should include contact information for the organization for which the third party is providing recruiting services. University Career Services must respect the confidentiality of this information and may not publish it in any manner.

Third-party recruiters will not disclose to any employer, including the client-employer, any student information without obtaining prior written consent from the student. Under no circumstances can student information be disclosed for other than the original recruiting purposes nor can it be sold or provided to other entities. Online job posting and résumé referral services must prominently display their privacy policies on their web sites, specifying who will have access to student information.

- Third-party recruiters may not post internship positions for students on Panther Career Net. This policy does not apply to Outsourcing Contractors or Leasing Agencies. Contact University Career Services with questions about this latter category.
